Based in Los Angeles, I've spent the past decade helping brands scale their ecommerce business and expand into global markets. I specialize in Shopify Plus development, conversion rate optimization (CRO), site performance, omnichannel initiatives like Shopify Collective, Buy with Prime, and B2B, as well as technical SEO and website compliance. My focus has always been on creating scalable solutions that improve customer experience and deliver measurable revenue growth. My biggest strengths are finding creative, outside-the-box solutions while staying calm under pressure. I'm highly meticulous in my work and always approach projects with a clear plan and strategy. I am also well connected in this space to support any project for the brand.
